

Cattle Hill Wind Farm Construction Update for October 2019.

Cattle Hill Wind Farm is located on the eastern shore of Lake Echo in the southern side of the Central Plateau of Tasmania. The project will consist of 48 Goldwind turbines and associated infrastructure. Construction of the project is currently underway, and the wind farm is aimed to become fully operational in late 2019.

On-site Construction Progress

Construction work on the project site is ongoing:

- Approximately 14 Goldwind turbines have been fully installed and turbine installations are now ongoing.
- Approximately three quarters of the wind turbine towers have been pre-installed in anticipation of full turbine installation in the coming months.
- The full wind turbine components for approximately 41 wind turbines have been delivered to site.
- Over three quarters of the electrical cabling has been installed in the ground.

Transportation of Oversize Turbine Components

The transportation of oversize turbine components is nearing completion. It's anticipated that deliveries will be completed in late October. Components are being transported from the Port of Bell Bay to the project site. The route follows the Bell Bay Road, East Tamar Highway, Midland Highway, Highlands Lakes Road, Waddamana Road and Bashan Road to the project site.

The loads will generally travel Monday – Saturday mornings each week, leaving the Port of Bell Bay very early in the morning and arriving at the project site before lunchtime.

Goldwind places a high importance on road safety for all road users and acknowledges the inconvenience that encountering these deliveries may cause. All loads will travel in accordance with the relevant permit conditions and will be accompanied by pilot vehicles and in some cases police escorts.
